Council aims meat-ax at 66-cent tax hike plan

By SUZANNE KITCHINGS
Sentinel Staff Writer

"After 12 years in office I don't get excited about preliminary reports."

That was the reaction of Mayor Frank Curran this week to the city manager's report that city taxes may have to be raised by 66 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to meet a $7 million deficit.

And city councilmen indicated they will do everything in their power to cut the budget and avert the tax hike.

The report said that unless city departments slash the budgets they already have submitted, or the city finds a new source of revenue, San Diego faces a $7 million imbalance between income and expenses.

TO MAKE UP THE DIFference, property taxes will have to be increased from the current $1.729 for each $100 of assessed valuation to $2.389.

(Assessed valuation is one-fourth of property's market value.)

This would mean the owner of a house valued at $24,000, which has an assessed valuation of $4,000, would pay $39.60 a year more in property taxes.

Curran said he did not think the report was a surprise to anyone, except for the amount of increase it named.

The city builds parks and other facilities, then suddenly realizes people must be paid to maintain them, he said. And in an election year, no one wants to raise the tax rate.

CITY MANAGER WALTER Hahn said the main reason for increased departmental requests is the impact of new facilities built with bond funds.

New libraries, park areas, swimming pools, and fire stations will need staffing, he said.

Also, the Police Department faces a serious manpower shortage, and the number of patrolmen must be increased to meet the need.

The city manager added he does not expect the tax increase to materialize. To avert it, his office is reviewing carefully each departmental budget, and requests for support from agencies the city traditionally has subsidized.

Councilman Sam Loftin commented, "It's a completely preliminary report from the city manager calling everyone's attention to the ever-increasing requests from the city.

"HE AND EVERYONE else are doing their dead-level best to reduce the budget to a lower amount," Loftin said.

The city manager gave a more optimistic report last year, when the tax rate was lowered, the councilman said. "This year it doesn't look so good."

Councilman Helen Cobb said there is a preliminary warning that taxes may be raised "almost every year, but not to this extent."

Even last year, when the tax rate was lowered about eight cents, the preliminary budget report warned there might be a deficit of almost $3 million, she said.

"I've already seen some of the areas where they're making adjustments," she said, "and it won't be that bad when it reaches us."

MRS. COBB SAID SHE HAS heard "general conversation" about budgeted increases in personnel that will not be needed, and about some services, now included in the budget, which can be accomplished in other ways.

Reducing the budget is a long process, she noted. It is pared by the departments first, then by the city manager's office, and finally by the City Council and a budget committee.

Councilman Bob Martinet said he feels it is too early to comment on the budget.

"We don't even get to see the budget until May," he said. "So how can we possibly make an opinion on it?"

"IT'S THE PRELIMINARY —the total report of all departments—and it's got to be shaved."

Councilman Allen Hitch said he found the preliminary budget and tax rate figures "upsetting."

"I recognize that these are preliminary figures," he said. "But I think it is absolutely essential that the City Council give our assurance to the citizens of San Diego that we will do everything in our power to prevent such an increase.

"As a matter of fact," he continued, "the charter limitation of $1.34 for general governmental purposes undoubtably would preclude an increase of this magnitude."

City won't listen, boat dweller claims

Mrs. Natalie McKibben, local boat dweller, says city councilmen and Park and Recreation Department officials "will hang up on you" if they find out you are a boat dweller.

"The mayor's office passes the buck to the city attorney and the city attorney may not speak with you," she says. "Again, if you attempt to talk to the editors or staff writers of the San Diego daily papers, they do not want part of your problem because of the 'political aspects.' The daily papers have refused even to print anything pertaining to the situation, except what information filters down from city officials."

Adm. Joel Parks, administrative assistant to the recreation director, said, "It is not our policy to hang up on anyone. One of the secretaries may have inadvertently cut someone off, but we don't hang up on people. I have had many calls from boat owners."

Mrs. McKibben also charges the city with placing "armed guards" on Fiesta Island, a charge which Parks dismisses as "fiction." "The Recreation Department doesn't have any armed guards," he said. "If there were any out there they must have been policemen. Lloyd Lowrey, the city park superintendent, tells me the gate is still open to anyone, but the city is not officially inviting anyone since there are no restroom faciilties out there at this time."

Mrs. McKibben says the city "is strangely quiet on the matter of pollution of the waters since Fiesta Island was mentioned as a possible source. The city finds it prudent to post armed guards on Fiesta Island now, where for some years a No Trespassing sign seemed adequate."

Boat owners are concerned with pollution problems, she said. "This is where we live and we would like to get down to the nitty-gritty in in this matter."

Palms, lawns, hibiscus plantings to beautify MB's eastern shore

The $68,000 landscaping plan for the east shore of Mission Bay, a plan originally scheduled for completion last month, is nearing completion this week, and contractors hope to be finished by the beginning of the summer season.

Chuck Able, city park designer, said bad weather slowed down progress.

At the present time J. Haddad & Co., contractors, are wrapping up their portion of the landscaping.

"Almost all the lawn is in down to the Hilton Inn," Able said. "The Park Division of Public Works will take over its portion of the project. After that the Recreation Department will install tiny tots' equipment in the appropriate area."

Once the planting is finished, the east shore will look something like a South Sea island, with a tropical lagoon area, an oak and pine woodland, and a eucalyptus and miscellaneous species area, according to Lloyd Lowrey, city park superintendent.

Lowery said there will be heavy plantings of several varieties of palms, and plantings of hibiscus and bird of paradise plants.

"Although the bulk of the area will be open lawn," he said, "the tree average will be 10 per acre. It should be a spectacular area and is one of the largest and most costly the park department is ever likely to undertake at one time."

South of the Hilton Inn there will be a day camp area with sturdy plants and open spaces.

There are tremendous parking areas, most of which are screened by trees. Night lighting is not included in the plans for the park.

A small island off shore will not be covered with grass because of the problems of getting a lawn mower over to the island.

Construction is going ahead quickly on a new Mission Bay Information Center which will house the Mission Bay Lessees and Mission Bay Associates offices as well as other offices connected with the promotion and operation of Mission Bay activities. The center will be owned by Pacific Outdoor Advertising and will be rented by the various groups.

OB council director out; mixed reactions follow

By DAVID GREGSON
Sentinel Staff Writer

"I just want to lead my own life, do my thing and be happy," said Mrs. Fran Hanks Friday while her letters announcing her resignation as Ocean Beach Town Council executive director were being received by council directors.

Mrs. Hanks becomes the most recent "casualty" in the heated internal conflicts infecting the council structure. Recent resignations include Dick Thorpe, council president, for "reasons of health;" Dr. R. W. Wheelock, second vice president, who later resigned from the board of directors as well; Hyman Glaser, board member, and Terrance McIntosh, another board member who later reconsidered.

MRS. PAGE CUMMINS, council president pro tempore and Mrs. Hanks' outspoken enemy, had "no comment" regarding the resignation.

Mrs. Hanks' letter, addressed to board members, began, "It is with deep regret that I find it necessary to submit my resignation at this time as your executive director. Working with you this past year has been both enjoyable and rewarding.

"There are two primary reasons for the decision I have made. One: Due to the current structural problems existing within the Ocean Beach Town Council, it is extremely difficult to function in the capacity for which I was hired. Two: It has been requested by my doctor that I allow a reaasonable recuperative period following my present month's illness.

"IT SEEMS TO ME THAT this is a good time for an evaluation period. Following a brief rest I will seek productive employment where my experience and skill will be fully utilized and which will offer me all the benefits thereof.

"Because you do have strong community support, I know you will resolve your differences. In rallying behind strong leadership you will enable this organization to grow, serve and benefit the entire community. As a member in good standing and because I have so much concern and respect for the concept of this organization, I will continue to do all I can to further the goals set for us in the articles of incorporation of the Ocean Beach Town Council.

"THIS NOTICE IS EFFECtive immediately, or at the discretion of the board of directors. I will do all that is necessary to assure completion of pending projects.

"Thank you so much for the opportunity of working with you. With most sincere, best wishes for a peaceful, productive and successful future, as ever, Mrs. Fran Hanks."

Members of the board of directors will meet in a closed session tomorrow night to discuss "the hiring and firing of employes." Since Mrs. Hanks has resigned, she cannot be fired. However, the wording of her letter leaves the possibility that she might be rehired. The phrases "my resignation at this time" and "at the discretion of the board of directors" indicate she would consider staying on as executive director for the amount of time requested.

THE REV. ROBERT FEHLman of the United Methodist Church, also a board director, said he and his fellow directors could offer better comments on Mrs. Hanks' resignation following tomorrow's closed meeting.

However, the Rev. Mr. Fehlman said he was "sorry" to learn of the resignation. "As far as I am concerned she has been doing a good job," he said. "I am especially sorry about this resignation since at this time the council and board are going through a needed analysis of purpose and function. We are in the middle of a process which I think is a hopeful one."

MRS. RUTH EMMETT, 5102 Cape May St., a woman who claims to represent an overwhelming majority of the community, said, "This is the best thing that has happened to Ocean Beach in a long time. We are rid of a tremendously trouble-making woman . . . To my knowledge she has done nothing but foist work off on others and sit back and take the credit for it. Now we will see the town council shape up and become a worthwhile organization."

Mrs. Emmett said the community stands behind Mrs. Cummins "and people like her." She said, "Mrs. Hanks has meddled in affairs for years and wormed her way into an administrative directorship which does not exist in the bylaws." She accused the Sentinel of being one-sided in its presentation of the council dispute.

Youth in fair condition after parachute fall

Robert Dameron, 18, of 2585 Locust St., was reported in fair condition Friday after he fell 60 feet in a beach parachute accident.

Dameron, the son of Robert B. Dameron of the same address, suffered a fractured skull and jaw, broken wrists and multiple abrasions. His parasail was flying at Ocean Beach before the fall.

In parasailing the rider straps himself to the harness of a parachute and is towed by a boat after the parasailor runs along the beach.

Youths head off try at vacation trouble

A fiery attempt to start vacation trouble here failed Wednesday evening after flames darted up out of a trash can on Newport Ave., Ocean Beach.

A possible disturbance at the In Between, a youth meeting hall for beach area youngsters, was headed off due to the "initiative of the youth," according to the Rev. Neal Jensen, In Between volunteer.

"Tension began to rise on Wednesday evening," the Rev. Mr. Jensen said. "A dialogue was started on their responsibility to the In Between and to the Ocean Beach community. During the dialogue, a trash can was set on fire at the corner of Bacon St. and Newport Ave."

Mr. Jensen said the incident could have been the cause of a more serious disturbance if it had not been for the youth center. He said the disturbance was diverted by the "responsible youth" urging other youth to remain away from the scene of the fire.

By holding the dialogue, Mr. Jensen said, the youth agreed a disturbance would jeopardize the aims and purpose of the In Between.

He said further that the center provides an immediate contact with Ocean Beach youth in a crisis situation, thereby avoiding potential commotion.

"It was also a point of contact for San Diego police to inform the youth earlier what would happen in the case of a disturbance," he said.

David L. Jackson, In Between board member, said that several critical needs exist in order to further develop the usefulness of the center. "We have a pressing need for a small business office and telephone to provide a source of immediate communications for the community and its youth," he said.

"The In Between is starting a Jobs For Youth Program and an information center to serve the youth and the community," Jackson said. The youth want to fix up the In Between and need volunteer resources of the community for carpentry, electrical wiring and painting, he continued.

Also needed are a public address system, stereo amplifier and records, said Jackson. He said the adult population should support the youth center efforts physically and economically.

Garfield testimonial dinner set

Richard L. Vaughn, presiding judge of the Juvenile Court, will serve as master of ceremonies at the "Golden Man and Boy" $100-a-plate award dinner honoring David H. Garfield of La Jolla on the evening of April 17 at the Hilton Inn, according to David Lippitt, president of the Boys' Clubs of San Diego.

Vaughn lives at 1221 Fleetridge St., Point Loma.

Garfield, the honoree, president of Allen Pharmacy and of Mid-City Heights Development Co., is a member of the San Diego regional board of the Union Bank & Trust Co. and a director of the Sentinel Savings & Loan Association. He was a county grand juror in 1966.

With a group of associates, Garfield gave some four acres of land on which the present Clairemont Boys' Club is now located and was active in a citywide campaign to raise funds to build and equip the club, which now serves more than 2,000 boys in the Clairemont area.

In 1966 Garfield was one of the major donors to a campaign to add an enclosed swimming pool at the Clairemont club. The pool is now under construction and is expected to be ready for summer activities.

Dialogue set on religion at university

Members of the Office of Religious Affairs at the University of California here will describe the religious community within the university at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday in the eighth dialogue meeting on relations between the university and the San Diego community.

The principal speakers at the session at the Torrey Pines Inn will be the Rev. Ernest Mort and the Rev. Les Atkinson.

The nine-part dialogue is being sponsored by the Torrey Pines Kiwanis Club in cooperation with the Circle K Club at the university, a men's university organization sponsored by Kiwanis International.

Psychiatric foundation picks officers

Robert F. Heilbron, retired president of Mesa College, has been elected chairman of the Vista Hill Psychiatric Foundation, which owns and operates Mesa Vista Hospital, adjacent to Sharp Memorial Hospital. He succeeds the late Douglas Young.

Robert Thorn was reelected to the presidency of the non-profit charitable foundation. La Jolla psychiatrist Dr. G. Burton Appleford was elected vice president, and Preston M. Fleet, also of La Jolla, was named to the board of directors.

The foundation also owns and operates mental health hospitals in Chula Vista and Compton, and engages in research, education and community consultive services in the field of mental health.

Most experts say progress moves in cycles—just a tactful way of saying that most of the time we're running in circles.

200th commissioner for April is Gildred

Philip L. Gildred, real estate investor and developer, has been named commissioner general of the San Diego 200th Anniversary celebration, to serve throughout the month of April.

Municipal Judge Earl B. Gilliam, commissioner general for March, presented Gildred with an official certificate of office and a 200th anniversary key during the changeover ceremonies.

"The appointment of Mr. Gildred is particularly appropriate for April because of his interest, influence, and long-time association with Spain, Mexico and Latin American countries," Gilliam said

Activities for April include Spanish Week, April 7-13; the Spanish "Expotur" Exhibit, April 7-20; the "Spanish Swirl" show, April 9-11, and the arrival of the Spanish four-masted training ship Juan Sebastian de Alcano April 12.

Gildred will act as official host for Marquis de Merry del Val, ambassador of Spain to the United States during his visit to the 200th April 11.

Gildred also will represent the 200th during pre-planning ceremonies and negotiations for the opening of "Fiesta 200," the Mexican entertainment center in Old Town, which opens May 1.

He will preside at the May 1 charity opening of "Fiesta 200," a benefit for the second annual San Diego World Junior Golf Tournament.

"I cannot emphasize enough that relationships with Mexico should be stressed during the 200th celebration," Gildred said. "When we show their art works and entertainment, and they display ours, it leads not only to an understanding of the arts, but also to an understanding of our different clutural life styles."

COMMISSIONER GENERAL GILDRED
Coming: A four-masted Spanish vessel.

Gildred has been Chilean consul here since 1944, and dean of the local consular corps since 1954. He was chairman of the civic committee of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce in 1929. His civic activities include being managing director of the 1935-36 California Pacific Exposition here, and in 1939 he was chairman of the San Diego Council of Inter-American Affairs.

In 1942 Gildred was chairman of the local U. S. War Savings Bond campaign, and became president of the city Planning Commission in 1943.

He was president of the local Fine Arts Society last year, and has served on various committees, such as San Diegans Inc., for the last 17 years.

Fight City Hall? Stull says it's still possible

Assemblyman John Stull (R-Leucadia) believes you can still fight City Hall.

Stull is up in arms against what he calls the arbitrary actions of public agencies in their relations with the general public.

"Citizens are hauled before boards and commissions and told to pay taxes higher than their land is worth, or arbitrary decisions are made by such boards to rezone property, yet when the citizen turns to the courts for a decision, the attorney's fees and other costs must be borne by him," he said.

The public today finds itself in a position of having its own tax money used in an action against him, he declared.

"In most cases," Stull said, "the average citizen is financially unable to bear the high costs of fighting City Hall and swallows whatever order is forced down his throat."

So the lawmaker has introduced legislation which would provide some reimbursement to the citizen who feels he is right and City Hall is wrong and takes the matter to court—and wins.

"An advantage to my proposal," Stull explained, "is that it will make public agencies more cautions about carrying through certain actions unless it is backed by substantial proof."

LAWMAKER STULL
You can't? Oh, yes, you can.

His bill would require public agencies to pay court costs, lawyers' fees, and any reasonable damages if the citizen wins the case.

Downtown 'Y' offering two new classes

The Downtown YMCA, 1115 Eighth Ave., will begin a new session in movement education and swimming instruction for boys and girls, aged 3 to 6, tomorrow. Classes will be held on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9:30 to 10:15 a.m. for swimming only and 9:30 to 11 for gym and swim.

In movement education the child's natural play around problem-solving games and exercises is utilized. Each child is separately engaged in seeking a solution within his own capabilities.

Swimming instruction is a major part of the program. Each day for 45 minutes there will be a class in swim instruction for each child. Water adjustment is the main purpose of this period, with individual skills being taught for those who are ready.

Information or registration is available by calling the Downtown YMCA, 232-7451.

YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By DOCTOR JOHN J. FLYNN
Doctor of Chiropractic

I'd like to take this opportunity to extend my best wishes for a happy and healthful Easter holiday. Remember, your good health is one of the best guarantees you can have for a vigorous active life.

Q—I've done it again. I've thrown my back out cleaning up around the yard. I've used heat pads and liniments but this time nothing seems to help. Can you?

A — This happens every spring. At the first sign of good weather (after all the rain we've had this year) most people start right in with heavy springtime clean-up chores in the garage or back yard without a thought for their physical condition. Remember after months of inactivity this sudden vigorous bending, twisting causes a host of back strains and what's more serious, can cause serious spinal misalignments. The spinal column is made up of twenty-six bones and the sudden heavy exercise places an enormous strain on the spinal ligaments and muscles that are not in proper tone. This in turn can cause the tiny vertebral bones to slip out of alignment on the spinal column and press or pinch off vital nerves that emit from between the vertebral openings. This is what in most cases causes the excruciating pain. A corrective Chiropractic adjustment can restore the misaligned vertebrae to its proper place on your spinal column. Heat pads and linaments cannot physically replace a misaligned spinal segment. I'd have a spinal examination to make sure that this is the problem.

Doctor Flynn welcomes your letters on health problems. Mail your question to his office at 6943 Linda Vista Road or telephone for an appointment to discuss your problem directly with him. As a public service, Doctor Flynn provides spinal examinations and consultations without obligation. Phone now for an appointment 278-2902.

HAPPY 1969, PADRE STYLE

San Diego Padre coaches Whitey Wietelmann (19), Wally Moon (6) and outfielder Al "the Bull" Ferrara (9) put their backs into a welcome greeting to San Diego Stadium and major league baseball. San Diego's National League entry opens its inaugural season Tuesday night by hosting the Houston Astros at San Diego Stadium. National League President Warren C. Giles will be on hand for the opening ceremonies. Dignitaries representing civic, state and local government offices and military services will join Giles in the observance. The Padres will complete a three game set with the Astros playing single games on Wednesday and Thursday then take on the San Francisco Giants in a three game series over the weekend. The Padres meet the Giants in a night game on Friday and in afternoon contests on Saturday and Sunday. The first televised National League "Game of the Day," will be Saturday's Padre-Giant affair. Saturday is also "Bat-Day" with 20,000 little league bats to be given away free to all youngsters attending the game. Tickets for all games are on sale now at the Padre Ticket office at the Stadium and all Padre Ticket outlets. (Photo by John E. Wirges)

SERIES TIED 2-ALL

Rocket rally rules return

By JOHN E. WIRGES
Sentinel Sports Editor

Rocket rookies rallied 'round and halted Hawks' hopes with a last-second hoop and gained a two-all tie in their playoff series with the Atlanta club, Friday, at the Sports Arena. The two clash in the Georgia city at 11 a.m. (San Diego time) today. The play-by-play will be broadcast over KFMB radio with Jerry Gross calling the shots from the dimly lit Hawk court.

The teams have played 11 times this year, with the home team winning each time out. The magic of the home court works wonders in Atlanta, but it gets a helping hand from lights. Hawk general manager Marty Blake cracked, "The place we play is so bad, they're going to tear it down and build a slum."

Today's game in Atlanta was scheduled for national television, but conditions are so bad in the Hawks' gym (They are to move into new quarters next season), that the San Diego-Atlanta contest was scrubbed from the eyewaves, and the New York-Boston go-round was substituted. Lighting in Atlanta is listed as the reason for the change. According to Blake, a change was planned but it wasn't enough. "We were going to spend $10,000 on the lighting," he reported. "It takes a lot of money to take out the candles and put in electricity."

No matter what happens today, the series returns to the friendly confines of the Sports Arena tomorrow night. A big item in the Rockets' surging success at home is the dynamic support of San Diego fans. More than 12,000 loyalists whooped it up as the rookie-repleted Rockets fought back for the series tie on Friday.

"Rick Adelman was the key to the late surge," reported Rocket coach Jack McMahon. "After missing three tries at the foul line, he came back with a driving left-handed bank shot and a pair of free throws to put life in the club."

Adelman's charity shots put the Rockets ahead 112-110, then Atlanta tied on Joe Caldwell's dunker with two seconds to go. After a time out the Rockets put the ball in play at mid-court. Adelman fired the ball to Elvin "Big E" Hayes at the top of the key, and the Rockets' most valuable player (who called the play) whipped a line-drive shot at the hoop as the buzzer sounded. Hayes' shot was true and the basket counted, even though it went through the hoop after the bell.

First hitter gifted

The first hit by a San Diego Padre in the National League Wars, breaking out Tuesday night against the Houston Astros, will be worth more than just a line in the box score. The Pacific Beach Town Council will present the Padres' first hitter with a fine trophy in commemoration of the inaugural hit.

Miss Pacific Beach, pretty Barbara Quartiano, will make the presentation, in the name of all Padre fans in Pacific Beach, the following evening.

National League President Warren C. Giles is expected to be on hand for the presentation ceremonies. Giles is in San Diego for the opening game, Tuesday and may still be here on Wednesday. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn will be presented to San Diego fans when he makes his first official visit to the Padres on Thursday night.

City Surfing Coordinator

Construction of a stairway is due to begin soon at Ladera Street, Sunset Cliffs. The area at present is almost sheer cliff and is used daily by hundreds of surfers, skin-divers, and beachcombers. The stairway will be the final step in the development of several areas to provide access and surfing area to the surfers of San Diego.

WHILE SURFERS FROM other cities north of us are continually pressing for more surfing area, artificial reef, and to keep favorite spots from becoming marinas, San Diego has kept an open mind to surfers and their needs.

In addition to Ladera Street, there are two other surfing parks developed for the benefit of surfers. One is located in South Mission Beach next to the North Jetty, and the other is Tourmaline Surf Park. Both have restroom facilities and ample parking.

TO SHOW THEIR APPREciation, surfers are asked to stay clear of Ladera Street when work begins. Any vandalism will delay much longer that which grateful surfers have been eagerly waiting for.

The Pacific Beach Surf Shop has been taken over by new hands and will soon display a large stock of Gordon and Smith surfboards. The shop will also offer surfing lessons to beginning surfers.

Western Surfing Association members and those wishing to become members are reminded to pick up applications at local board shops for the TRIPPLE CROWN 1A Contest held in a succession of three Sundays starting May 4th. The first event will be held in Del Mar, the second at La Jolla Shores, and the third at Imperial Beach. All three contests are open to 1A Mini's (all districts) Boys, Juniors, Women, Men, and Seniors (25-34 years—all districts).

SURFING CONDITIONS: Today's high of 3.3 will come at 12:24 p.m. followed by a low of 2.1 coming at 4:48 p.m. Water temperature at Mission Beach is 60 degrees.

Stocks return to Cajon track

Cajon Speedway Inc. and the El Cajon Stock Car Racing Assn. have signed a two year 28 race agreement, to provide the racing fans of San Diego County the best stock car racing on the west coast.

The 1969 season will start on Saturday night, April 26 and run every Saturday night including the grand prix on November 1. All races will start at 8 p.m. with qualifying set for 6:30 p.m.

SPECIAL 50 LAP EVENTS will be run on the holiday weekends of Memorial Day, May 31, Independence Day, July 5; Labor Day, August 30 and the grand Prix Nov. 1. Regular 30 lap mains weekly, with 10 lap semi-mains. Two 8 lap heats and a 3 lap trophy dash will be the minimum program, for Super Stocks along with a full limited stock racing program.

The lowest prices on the west coast for 1969 will be $2.25 Eastside, $2 Westside, with juniors 11 to 16 years $1.25 and kids 75 cents. Under 6 years are free. Black top parking, concessions and restrooms are available.

THE STOCK CARS WILL have two practice dates to get cars ready for the opening, Sunday, April 13 from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. and Saturday night, April 19 from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Mission Bay's distance meet

Mission Bay 15-Kilometer Run in open and senior classes and a four-kilometer run for juniors will be held on Sunday, April 13 in Mission Bay Park, the San Diego Track and Field Association has announced.

The long distance event is sanctioned by the Pacific Southwest Amateur Athletic Unoin and conducted in cooperation with the San Diego Recreation Department.

VACATION OVER

Western League returns to action

Lions' tilt tabs teams as comers

The 19th annual Lions Baseball tournament is over and Western League teams return to local action. Though no titles were forthcoming in the Easter Holiday tourney, several teams gave indications that their best is yet to come.

Madison, Kearny and Clairemont earned the quarter final round in the unlimited consolation division and La Jolla gained a final berth in the limited division. The Vikings blasted Marian 11-9 after losing a squeaker to Castle Park 3-2. In semi-final play, the Vikes ripped Henry 6-2 before dropping the limited division title to tough Granite Hills 5-3.

Kearny klouted Madison 4-1 in their quarter-final match then lost their first game to a Western League school when Clairemont, with Randy Casey on the mound, stopped them 5-2. Casey allowed seven hits but proved tough in the clutch to keep the Komets from capitalizing on the base knocks.

In the consolation final, Chieftain mound ace Tom Dodd yielded but two hits but his mates miscued three times and Clairemont went down 5-0 to Mount Miguel.

Point Loma, Mission Bay and University all won opening round games but were stopped in the quarter finals. In unlimited play, Point Loma bombed Lincoln 6-3 before losing in a tight 1-0 contest to El Cajon, the second place team in the Unlimited division. University dropped the limited division consolation winner, Granite Hills, 11-7 in first round play, then took it on the chin 8-7 from El Centro. Mission Bay bounced Bonita Vista 5-1 then came acropper to St. Augustine 8-6.

Local diamond battles pick up on Tuesday with a full schedule that sees Kearny at Point Loma, La Jolla meeting University at Robb Field and Madison taking on arch rival Clairemont. Mission Bay plays a non-league affair with a visit to Hilltop.

Laird a super-hawk? It looks that way, but . . .

By ORR KELLY

WASHINGTON—In an astoundingly short time, Melvin R. Laird has emerged as the bad guy of the new administration, the hombre in the black hat.

He has been described as bomb-happy, a super-hawk, a willing captive of the Pentagon brass.

Everyone needs someone to hate. So it is too bad that it must be pointed out to those who are busy sticking pins in homemade Mel Laird kewpie dolls that much of the evidence on which he has been tried, convicted and condemned to public obloquy is either nonexistent or rigged.

If a book Laird wrote in 1962 and some of the things he said during his career as a politician are admitted into evidence, then maybe there is some reason for the condemnation.

In 1962, for example, he said the only safe thing for the United States to do was to get into a first-strike position in relation to the Soviet Union.

WHAT HE HAS BEEN SAYING IN RECENT WEEKS, HOWEVER, is quite the opposite. Instead of urging that the United States get into a first-strike posture, he has been warning that the Soviet Union is trying to get into such a position.

He even went so far, in a recent Senate hearing, as to say "there is no question" that's what the Soviets are up to. That, of course, is ridiculous. If there were no question about Soviet intentions, then there would be no need for the big debate Laird was in the midst of when he made the statement. Perhaps we can demand more precision of language of our Defense Secretary, but we can hardly condemn him out of hand for what, in his previous profession, would have slipped by almost unnoticed as a bit of political hyperbole.

The "no question" comment and some of Laird's other remarks in his two days of televised testimony certainly did have a bellicose tone to them. But it also is instructive to look at what he has done rather than at just what he has said since he became Secretary of Defense.

THE SAFEGUARD MISSILE DEFENSE SYSTEM PROPOSED BY President Nixon is largely a product of the Pentagon under Laird. While there is still considerable controversy over whether or not it shoud be deployed or whether this is the right time to deploy it, even many of its critics concede that it is markedly less provocative toward the Russians than the Sentinel system.

In the process of reaching their position in favor of the new systems, the Joint Chiefs of Staff dropped a position they had held for three years which urged the deployment of a "thick" Soviet-oriented missile defense. This was a historic change to a less aggressive stance on the part of this country. What part Laird may have played in urging the chiefs toward that new position is not known, but the fact is that the change occurred shortly after he came to the Pentagon.

IN HIS REVISIONS OF THE JOHNSON ADMINISTRATION'S defense budget, Laird made two other decisions which he has since described as part of a deliberate effort to de-escalate the arms race. One was to cut back on bomber production and the other was to slow up deployment of the Minuteman III with its multiple warhead. The Pentagon won't say how much the multiple warhead will be delayed, but even a short delay will provide just that much more time for an attempt to reach an agreement on arms limitation.

On Vietnam, Laird has had some fairly warlike things to say. He has, for example, condemned more strongly than other American leaders the enemy shelling of Saigon, Hue and Da Nang, thus implying that the United States was preparing to take some vigorous action in return.

THE WHOLE THRUST OF LAIRD'S PERSONAL POLICY ON Vietnam, however, has been to disengage and find a way to get out rather than to escalate the fighting. Those who traveled with Nixon during the campaign recall that it was Laird who always swung the conversation back to the question of how to end the American involvement in Vietnam, or at least to scale it down.

In the testimony Laird is now presenting on Capitol Hill, this same strong thrust toward American disengagement is still present. In some ways, in fact, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, who received a much warmer reception from the doves on the Hill than Laird, seems to set a more demanding goal for a settlement in Vietnam than does Laird.

It is still too early in the new administration to be dropping any of President Nixon's cabinet officers into neat, permanent cubbyholes. But the evidence so far would indicate that Laird, despite his growing reputation in certain quarters for hawkishness, probably fits at least a little bit over to the dovish side of the perch.

The Navy says it didn't rescue the Pueblo because that might have meant war. Oh, swell. The North Koreans probably will steal the next U.S. ship from the Naval Station in San Diego.

Nobody wants Chotiner? Maybe this would be the job for him

By PAUL HOPE

WASHINGTON — President Nixon obviously has the solution at hand to the question of what to do with his old political pal, Murray Chotiner: Simply apply the Otto Otepka rule.

Nixon's handling of the Otepka case opens a whole new vista for handling touchy personnel situations. In fact, it might even be applied to sticky foreign affairs problems.

Otepka, you will recall, was the State Department security chief who was kicked out by Secretary Dean Rusk in 1963 after he gave some confidential departmental loyalty files to the Senate Internal Security subcommittee.

HE RESISTED BEING cashiered from government service and finally in 1967 was given a $15,000-a-year job shuffling papers in an out-of-the-way office where there was little else to do.

Otepka, who never stopped protesting, thought Nixon would restore him to his old security job. There was some basis for that belief, since Nixon promised during the 1968 campaign that he would look into Otepka's case if he got into the White House.

But the new Secretary of State, William P. Rogers, refused to let Otepka come back, in effect upholding the action Rusk had taken. Whereupon the President nominated Otepka to the Subversive Activities Control Board.

Obviously, Nixon's action was a compromise and reflected political considerations. He named Otepka to the SACB to placate conservatives who had made Otepka a cause celebre. Had he thought Otepka was 100 percent right in his fight with Rusk, he probably would have insisted that Otepka be restored to the State Department security post.

JUST AS OBVIOUSLY, Otepka had to do a bit of compromising himself in agreeing to the nomination. He's likely to have even fewer papers to shuffle at the SACB, because it doesn't have much work to do.

Getting back to Chotiner, the White House tried to sign him on with the Republican National Committee. But party chairman Ray Bliss wouldn't have it. Neither would Bliss's successor-designate, Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton.

The SACB is the ideal place for Chotiner. His past record in political management indicates he has a thing for hunting Reds.

The least the White House could do is to have Otepka hire Chotiner as his first assistant until one of the $36,000 top jobs becomes vacant. Who knows, it may not be long before someone decides to quit, and Chotiner would be right there, available for immediate service.

OR MAYBE THE WHITE House could prevail on Senate Republican leader Everett Dirksen to put in a little bill increasing the membership of the SACB from five to six. It was Dirksen who got the SACB a new lease on life a couple of years ago when a move was afoot to abolish the agency because it didn't have anything to do. Dirksen also is reported to have made the suggestion to the White House that the best way out of the Otepka case was to name him to the SACB.

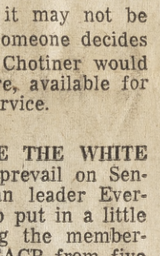
Applying the Otepka rule to foreign affairs, what could be a simpler way to end the Vietnam war than to give Ho Chi Minh a good job in the U.S. government? Maybe Deputy Attorney General Richard G. Kleindienst could put him in charge of enforcing the 12-minute rule at the SACB. On second thought, most of the time the SACB members would fall into a doing-nothing-special category, so the job of seeing that they keep track of their time in 12-minute intervals would not be very challenging. Perhaps he would like to become governor of California.

And think how easy it would be to solve the Cuba problem. Fidel Castro would be perfect for Bobby Baker's old job.

MacLean is having the Time of his Life

By DON MacLEAN

WASHINGTON — Perhaps if I went to New York, and set myself on fire in front of the Time-Life Building, I could bring myself to the attention of the drones who labor for that vast but inefficient organization known as Time Inc.



MacLEAN

It all began when some practical joker began signing me up for magazine subscriptions, book offers, etc. As the unasked-for items began to arrive, I dispatched a letter to each explaining the situation. All but Time-Life took the bad news in good spirit. For instance, Jack & Jill's answering form letter indicated that this sort of thing happened all the time.

However, the Time-Life crowd continued to bill me for Sports Illustrated and other unsolicited merchandise. Since my letter went ignored, I decided to write a column about the situation, in the hope that someone in the incredibly complex Time-Life hierarchy would notice it. Apparently no one did. The bills continue to arrive.

IT'S FANTASTIC WHEN you think about it: Even though my column, which runs from coast to coast in almost 100 papers, represented the worst kind of public relations for Time-Life, not one of its thousands of employes was motivated to action. Yet at the same time that its sundry billing departments are threatening my credit rating, Time-Life's public relations bureau continues—as it has for years—to court me with complimentary Time-Life publications!

At the moment my home is filled with Time-Life stuff, some of which its public relations staff sent me in the hope that I'd praise it mightily in my column and some of which Time-Life sent as the result of the phony subscriptions, and for which it is now trying to collect. I confess that I don't know which is which — and I really don't care.

TIME-LIFE IS NEVER GOing to get one quarter from me. I say this despite the threat of Life magazine's collection bureau to put me in its "bad pay" file. Time-Life's book division is now after me for $9.08 for "Egypt" and "Imperial Rome." They say that if I don't pay up within 10 days the books credit manager will have to turn my account over to the corporate collection office.

Frankly, I don't care if they turn it over to the FBI. There is no obligation for anyone to return, at his own expense, unsolicited items received in the mail. Besides, since Time-Life has ignored my letters and this column, there seems little chance it would even know if I sent its books back. I eagerly await developments — if any.

Conservative View

Smut: Whither now?

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

NEW YORK—A Swedish motion picture, "I Am Curious (Yellow)," went on view the other day at a small theater here. It took considerable waiting in line, for word had gone out that this was the hottest film ever shown in a public house, but patience at last was rewarded.

"Rewarded" is not the right word. The spectator who emerges from the Cinema Rendezvous is likely to ask himself: Where does pornography go from here? If this movie may be freely and lawfully exhibited—and it just won a reluctant 2-1 verdict from the New York Circuit Court of Appeals—it becomes a waste of time any longer to ponder restraint by law in the field of obscenity. Nothing will remain, as a legal concept, but the protection of minors. In the light of the Supreme Court's recent "armband" decision, guaranteeing school children certain First Amendment rights, even this barrier may not remain for long.

KILPATRICK

In the past year or so nudity has become almost commonplace in "adult" films. Acts of sexual intercourse have been strongly implied. But apart from the old stag movies, so far as I know, never have they been depicted so explicitly as in "I Am Curious (Yellow)."

THE RULE OF LAW—SO FAR AS ANY RULE OF LAW REmains in this field—is still basically the rule of the Roth-Alberts decision of 1957. The Supreme Court held flatly in that landmark case that obscenity has no protection under the First Amendment. And what is "obscene"? The test, said the court, is whether to the average person, applying contemporary community standards, the dominant theme of the material, taken as a whole, appeals to prurient interest.

Subsequently the Roth test was significantly enlarged. Material could not be held legally obscene, said the court, unless it is "utterly without redeeming social importance." It was this enlargement of the old Roth definition that caused the New York appeals court, against its better judgment, to allow "I Am Curious" to be screened.

The decision was a poor triumph of law over common sense. The heroine of this steamy movie, it is true, does wander about Stockholm asking questions about political and economic policies in modern-day Sweden. This is the "social importance." But who is kidding whom? The crowds lined up at the box office had not come to see the heroine interview spokesmen for organized labor. They had come to see the film only out of prurient interest.

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE? I DON'T KNOW. ABOUT 10 years ago, following the Roth decision, I wrote a book about the obscenity racket. It wasn't easy, in those days, for a reporter to obtain what is known as "hard-core" material. The racket was mostly underground; it flourished in the criminal shadows.

It is astonishing to return to this field of inquiry and to discover how radically things have changed with each progressive relaxation of legal restraints. Hard-core material abounds. The seedy bookstores of every major city are openly selling pornography that once would have met immediate condemnation from the courts.

The question is: Is such material harmful? Does it provoke crime or anti-social behavior? Is it any worse, from a standpoint of public policy, for a man to satisfy his prurient interest by seeing a lewd movie than it is for him to satisfy his thirst by having a highball?

These are not easy questions. They are immensely troubling questions to persons who make their living, as we newspapermen do, by the rule of the free press. An 18-member federal commission, established last July, is well along in a massive study of obscenity, its nature and its consequences. The commission's report is not due until July, 1970. By that time, the way things are going, "I Am Curious (Yellow)" may have yielded place to "I Am Filthy (Purple)." If this is what the public wants—and the courts permit—never fear: The fast-buck boys will turn it out.

Harris Poll

College militancy

By LOUIS HARRIS

Militant demonstrations on college campuses, especially those involving black students, are viewed with a hostile reaction by 68 percent of the American people.

The public would deny students the right to conduct such protests, by a vote of 52 to 38 percent. A substantial 69 percent of the nation believes the campus outbreaks which have taken place over the past year are a "serious problem," and an additional 23 percent rank them as "somewhat serious." The public favors taking scholarships away from students who violate the law in participating in a protest, by a wide 72-to-17 percent margin.

HARRIS

The results of this latest Harris Survey clearly indicate the patience of most Americans has been worn thin by the continuing demonstrations, occupation of buildings, and outbreaks of violence at many colleges and universities. And there is a widespread suspicion (31 percent) among the public that the demonstrations are "Communist-inspired."

Other highlights of the special Harris Survey of the public reaction to the campus protests are:

● MANY RECENT DEMONSTRATIONS HAVE BEEN TRIGgered by the demands of black students for changes in curriculum and living accommodations. Most Americans (56 percent) believe such protests have the support of most black students on college campuses.

● An equal percentage is just as convinced, however, that only a few white students back these demonstrations.

● The public overwhelmingly (89 to 5 percent) believes that college authorities are right to call in the police or the National Guard when students occupy campus offices or buildings.

● Most Americans see such police intervention as being "more helpful than harmful," by 73 to 15 percent.

● By 64 to 19 percent, most persons feel taking away scholarships from student protesters would be more helpful than harmful in controlling the demonstrations.

The issue of financial sanctions has been drawn recently by President Nixon's recent statement on campus disorders. The federal statute calls for withdrawal of federal support from students found guilty of violating the law, but it has not previously been enforced.

WHEN ASKED WHY THEY THINK BLACK STUDENTS HAVE resorted to demonstrations to ask for their own separate dormitories, their own black studies programs, and their own eating and social facilities, the public offered these principal explanations:

1. "They want to be with their own people, where they feel better off."
2. "They want to show they are equal to or better than whites."
3. "They are trying to make a show of strength to test what they can get."
4. "They want attention and recognition."
5. "They enjoy trouble and agitation."
6. "If whites won't let them achieve integration, they prefer to try separation."

Despite the heavy majorities condemning the protests, a closer look at the results reveals deep divisions on the issue by age, race and education. Persons under 30, persons who have been to college, and blacks tend to be more sympathetic with the student demonstrators than older, high school-educated whites.

Illustrative of the deep division was a question about the right of students to conduct such protests even peacefully A carefully drawn cross-section of 1,468 adults was asked between Feb. 24 and March 2: "Do you feel students have the right to make protests or not?"

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Rioting at S.F. State: Californians irked

By DREW PEARSON and JACK ANDERSON

Drew Pearson

Jack Anderson

SAN FRANCISCO — San Francisco State College is a cluster of modern buildings surrounded by patches of golden marigolds in a residential part of San Francisco. It was built up by former Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown as part of his very considerable contribution to education, including 10 branches of the University of California and 60 community colleges.

Brown was proud of San Francisco State. It gave, he felt, an opportunity to young Negroes, Mexican-Americans, the Chinese and the sons of other underprivileged families who could not get into Berkeley or Stanford a chance for a real education.

Today Brown is not proud. His college has been the scene of as many as 50 bombings in one day, threats against faculty members, some professors punched, at least one set of offices ravaged by fire, together with a prolonged teacher strike, and a student strike which saw 550 arrested, some of them outsiders.

PERHAPS MORE IMPORtant, what's happened at San Francisco State, together with the unrest at nearby Berkeley, has given education such a sour taste that the people of California have revolted. A recent bond issue of $350 million for education was voted down, together with a proposal whereby teachers' funds set aside for pensions would be non-taxable.

An indignant public voted down the bond issue for education, and voted that the teachers would have to pay income taxes on their pension funds.

Equally interesting is the fact that Gov. Ronald Reagan is sure to be re-elected — thanks to the students. There is no man on college campuses more unpopular than Reagan, who has decreed that tuition at state schools will no longer be free. As a result, students vowed to prevent his re-election. But unrest on the college campuses has now ensured it instead. Reagan is a shoo-in as governor for a second term —thanks to his enemies, the students.

The question is: Why the turmoil at San Francisco State? Why the unrest at other college campuses in California?

THE EASY ANSWER TO the first, given by members of the faculty, is that the college has had eight presidents in eight years. The turnover was too fast. The presidents were too weak. Some members of the faculty were too independent, too interested in outside activities rather than classes. Not enough attention was given to revamping and revitalizing the curriculum. Studies had become outdated. In addition, graduate students not much older than undergraduates had become assistant teachers, some of them as vigorous as student strikers.

None of these things, however, really seem to give the basic answer as to why the tragic violence. So we asked some of these questions of the tough, tam-o'-shanter-wearing acting president, Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, whose courage has made him anathema to striking students but a hero to most of California.

"Is student violence prompted by frustration over what they see the establishment getting away with?" we asked. "When they see the oil companies polluting the coast of California and lumber companies cutting down the redwoods, does this have a direct effect on the student revolt?"

"STUDENTS OF HISTORY don't revolt," was Hayakawa's reply. "They know that every generation has its problems and its setbacks. They know that we make progress slowly, but we do make it. They know history. It's the students who study English or art who have been unreasonable. They don't understand history."

Hayakawa said he had been ready to grant black studies even before the student strike demanded them.

"However, we also have a lot of Mexican-Americans in the student body. What are we going to do about Spanish-American studies? And what do we do about Chinese studies? Are we going to splinter the campus up into a lot of ethnic groups studying the history of each period? What we need in modern colleges are studies that will equip young men and women to make a living and improve themselves and their country. I have no objection to black studies, but this should be only a part of the curriculum, not monopolize it."

HAYAKAWA DID NOT mention it, but unquestionably some of the students at San Francisco State are anarchists bent on revolution. They stem from the little band of trouble-makers, including Rudi Dutschke, Daniel Cohn-Bendit and Mark Rudd, who staged the first revolts against the Axel Springer publications in Berlin, the Sorbonne in Paris and Columbia University in New York. These are militants who cannot be appeased, whose goal is revolution.

One amazing development at San Francisco State is that students have used the college's student fund of $500,000 for left-wing activities, including the financing of their own strike. Non-striking students strongly object to this. They point out that their money is being used by a minority to disrupt education for the majority.

But a campus committee of left-wing faculty members and left-wing students has set up machinery whereby—so far — they control the fund.

Striking students at San Francisco State don't know it, but Hayakawa has a long record of defending Negroes. At the University of Chicago, where he once taught, he was a correspondent for the Chicago Defender, the city's Negro daily newspaper.

There has been considerable talk in California of running Hayakawa for the Senate against George Murphy, the former soft-shoe dancer who now represents California in Washington. When we asked Hayakawa whether he has any plans to enter politics, he smiled.

He did not, however, say no.

Scenic helicopter ride approved for Sea World in time for Easter

Sea World attained its goal; it got its helicopter sightseeing ride running by Easter.

"We just slid in under the wire," said Sea World's assistant director of marketing, Dave Grant.

The city manager's approval was received late last month; Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) approval came through Wednesday, and Thursday morning Sea World was ready to go.

The five-seat Bell jet ranger is "the Cadillac of helicopters," Grant said. It is a "very dependable" machine and has a low noise level.

"We're right by it here in the administration building," he said, "and it doesn't bother us at all. We can hardly hear it."

The copter takes off from a heliport in the Sea World parking lot and cruises above Mission Bay Park about five minutes.

The trip costs three cents a pound.

The reason for charging by the pound, he said, is that fuel consumption is based on poundage. It costs less to take five children on a flight than five good-sized adults.

The helicopter will run continuously from 9 a.m. to dusk every day, including Easter—today.

In the winter months Sea World plans to use it for animal and fish collecting.

"We'll take it to sea to spot dolphins and whales for our collection boats," Grant said. "They're much easier to spot from the air."

City Manager Walter Hahn said a tentative flight plan has been approved, but final approval will not be made until there has been experience with operating the ride.

A previous helicopter ride in Mission Bay operated from the Dana Basin area by Dynaero, Inc. until last November.

The Dynaero scenic flight operated from the Sea World parking lot for a few months, the city manager said. But "it soon became apparent that standards establishing controls for noise, flight pattern and maintenance of equipment were necessary."

The manager's office prepared standards for operation, safety and noise control and solicited proposals for a helicopter ride from Copt-Air, Dynaero, PSA and Sea World.

Hahn said that after a careful review his office decided the Sea World proposal would serve the interests of the city best.

PR director is named by utility firm

R. Denis Richter has been named public relations director of the San Diego Gas & Electric Co.

For the last four years Richter, a former newspaperman, has been public relations director of Midwest Research Institute, Kansas City, a firm active in the physical, biological, engineering and social sciences.

He succeeds Lauran G. Clapp, who has assumed new responsibilities for special projects in the personnel division.

Utility firm, union reach wage accord

A two-year agreement providing a 6½ percent wage increase and other improved employe benefits has been reached by the San Diego Gas & Electric Co. and Local 465, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

J. J. Holley, personnel manager for the utility, and R. L. Baum, business manager of the local, said the agreement would be retroactive to March 1 and would apply to some 1,700 San Diego Gas & Electric employes. The agreement provides that negotiations on wages only may be reopened next March 1.

THE CASE OF THE GOODWILL DOLLAR

'But officer, I only wanted...'

By DAVID BRAATEN
Special to the Sentinel

WASHINGTON—Not only does everyone talk about crime in the big cities these days, there is actually one person in the country who is doing something about it.

Police Commissioner Johannes F. Spreen of Detriot figures what's needed is greater community support for the boys in blue, so he has asked every citizen of Detroit to donate $1 to the department. The money will pay for new equipment and will show that people care about their cops, Spreen feels.

The commissioner even has a name for his revolutionary program. Spreen calls his dollar-ante campaign: "Buck Up Your Police Department."

Predictably, Spreen's idea has encountered a certain amount of flak from the cynics. The city controller was heard to suggest that Detroit hold a municipal bake sale to pay off an impending $25 million deficit. A professional smart-aleck recommended "Kiss a Kop" as a better way of showing appreciation for Detroit's finest.

The seriousness of the police-community relations problem should lead us to rise above such jesting. Surely Spreen's brainstorm is worth a try. Lord knows, nothing else seems to have worked, and the best brains of the new administration have come up with nothing better than wiretapping as a solution to the crime wave. Who among us would not risk a lousy buck if it would keep our phone from being tapped?

Let us follow Harry Allhart, an average, right-thinking guy, as he sets out to donate his goodwill dollar to the police department of Ourtown, USA.

Because he wants his contribution to arrive in time to fight crime in the current fiscal year, or at least in the current generation, Harry eschews the mails and elects to hand-carry his buck down to friendly old No. 5 Precinct. In a glow of civic pride, a saintly smile on his face, Harry enters the musty, red-brick building and walks up to the desk.

Fifteen minutes later, Desk Sgt. Quirt looks up from a report titled "Playboy, March 1969," surveys Harry Coldly and says: "Did you want something, buddy?"

Harry holds out his dollar and says with a smile: "I wish to donate this to the Police Department."

"What is this, a bribe?" asks Sgt. Quirt, eyeing the greenback with contempt. "You in some kind of trouble?"

"Don't be silly, officer," says Harry. "I only want to buck up my police department. I'm for you. Here."

He thrusts the dollar bill at Quirt, who refuses to touch it. Telling a nearby patrolman to "keep an eye on this guy," the sergeant disappears into a nearby office.

"Say, mister, is that your car out in front of the station, the green hardtop?" asks a motorcycle officer striding in the front door.

"Why, yes, it is," says Harry. "You see, I was only coming in for a second to—"

"Tough," interrupts the officer. "Never mind the alibi, just sign this citation, will you?"

"Now wait a minute!" exclaims Harry.

"Oh, a wise guy, eh?" says the officer. "Okay, Mac, let's see your license. You got a registration for that heap?"

At this point, the sergeant returns with Capt. Flagg, kindly czar of No. 5.

"Trouble, officer?" he asks.

"Just giving me a little lip about a parking ticket, Captain," replies the arresting officer.

"That would explain the bribe attempt," says the captain. He turns to Harry, sighs and says: "It is my duty to inform you that you are entitled to counsel before you discuss the charges in this case. You may use that phone over there."

Two hours later, after being booked, printed, mugged and given a balloon test, Harry is permitted to leave the stationhouse.

Two minutes later, he returns.

"Good grief!" says the sergeant. "I thought we got rid of you. Why don't you go home like a good boy?"

"I can't," says Harry. "Somebody stole the transmission out of my car."

Stamp's picture is of Carmel, but ceremonies will be here

Special ceremonies here will honor the first-day issue of the postage stamp that commemorates the 200th anniversary of the settlement of California — even though the stamp depicts the mission at Carmel, rather than the local one.

Plans are under way by the philatelic committee of San Diego 200th Anniversary Inc., following the March 23 announcement by Postmaster General Winton M. Blount that a special stamp has been designed.

The six-cent stamp will be issued July 16, 200 years to the day after Father Junipero Serra and General Gaspar de Portola established the first California mission and began colonization of the area.

THREE TYPES OF OFFICIAL CACHET FIRST-day covers will be available from San Diego 200th Anniversary Inc. to honor the events.

Single block first-day cachets will be available for 40 cents; a block of four stamps will cost 60 cents; and plate blocks will cost $1.25.

The design features the city's 200th anniversary, and the covers will be available at 200th headquarters, 635 C St. Pre-orders will be accepted.

The stamp depicts the belfry of the mission at Carmel, where Father Serra is buried.

Two browns, blue and red are combined in the vertical stamp, designed by Leonard Buckley and Howard C. Mildner, of the U. S. Bureau of Engraving and Printing.

SIX BELLS ARE SET IN A LIGHT BROWN SAND-stone tower, which frames a blue sky. At the top, in red roman capitals, is "California." Beneath, right, in dark brown, is "1769-1969." Across the bottom in dark brown is "United States 6 cents."

Ceremonies honoring the first-day issue of the stamp are being planned here in Old Town, birthplace of California.

The bicentennial stamp also will be featured at the San Diego International Philatelic Exhibition (SANDIPEX), planned by San Diego 200th Anniversary Inc. July 16-20 at the downtown Community Concourse.

Commemorative stamps from other nations associated with California's historical heritage also are expected to be issued at the show.

"THE FACT THAT A 200th ANNIVERSARY POST-age stamp is being issued at all is a tribute to the many dedicated San Diegans who worked so assiduously on this project," Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin said in a statement.

Rep. Bob Wilson said, "All of us, of course, would have liked to have Mission San Diego de Alcala depicted on the 200th anniversary stamp. However, we can take great consolation in the Post Office Department's decision to have the first-day issue on this stamp in San Diego, the birthplace of our state."

San Diego would have been nice, but . . .

Wilson bill would help preserve open space

The preservation of California's diminishing open space lands would be enhanced under legislation introduced this week by Assemblyman Pete Wilson (R-San Diego).

The measure would allow cities and counties to acquire land through condemnation to be maintained as open space preserves. The bill is supported by the City of San Diego.

"With the increasing urbanization of our state," Wilson said, much natural beauty is being displaced by concrete and steel."

Wilson said cities and counties now are unable to condemn land in the path of urban progress. They can only purchase or lease it or receive it as a gift or grant, and are subject to the inflated price demands of the property owner.

"Cities and counties now are hamstrung," Wilson said, "when they attempt to obtain land for needed open space because they can not condemn." Given the power of condemnation, the local agencies can encourage the property owner to part with their property at fair market value.

Wilson said certain urban lands should be kept free of development to allow a break from the surrounding man-made structures.

People are overpaying, tax official announces

A sampling of 1968 California income tax returns shows many taxpayers are failing to take their tax credits and are overpaying their personal income tax, according to executive officer Martin Huff of the Franchise Tax Board.

Others are computing their tax and claiming refunds if the tax credit exceeds the tax.

The State Legislature substituted tax credits for exemptions in 1967, allowing $25 for individuals, $50 for married couples filing jointly, and $8 for each dependent.

The taxpayer should determine his adjusted gross income, subtract either the standard deduction or take his itemized deductions, find the tax on this amount from the tax rate schedule, then subtract his tax credits and pay the balance.

"If he doesn't deduct the credit, he will overpay and be entitled to a refund," Huff said. "The taxpayer who follows the procedure and finds his tax is less than his tax credits has no tax to pay. However, he will have no refund coming since California does not withhold income tax from wages.

"If you are having trouble, call or visit an office of the Franchise Tax Board for help," Huff advised. "Don't delay until the last minute or you may have a long wait for assistance."

The deadline for filing state personal income tax and paying the full amount due is April 15.

Classical Chinese film scheduled in La Jolla

The Chinese Students Club of UCSD and Rho Psi fraternity, a national organization for overseas Chinese students, are co-sponsoring two benefit performances of a classical Chinese movie, "Tiao Chan," Saturday and Sunday.

The story takes place in 70 A. D. and concerns the political intrigue that surrounds the life of one of the most beautiful women in Chinese history. The movie is in color with English subtitles.

Showings will be April 12 at 8 p.m. in Sherwood Hall at the La Jolla Museum of Art and April 13 at 3 p.m. in the UCSD Undergraduate Sciences Building auditorium. Ticket prices are $1 for students, $2 for the general public and $10 for honorary donors. All proceeds will be donated to the Rho Psi Brothers Foundation Scholarship Fund for deserving students in the Far East.

Reserved seats are being sold for the Saturday evening showing. Tickets and information are available by calling Frank Yin, 453-3360, or checks may be sent to his attention at 9355 Discovery Way, La Jolla 92037.

Peep show ruling eyed

Satisfaction with a recent court ruling on peep shows is expressed in a letter to the mayor and City Council from City Attorney John Witt.

The March 27 ruling of Superior Court Judge Hugo Fisher made "a giant step towards determining the constitutionality of our peep show ordinance," Witt said, by ruling that neither the mayor and councilmen, nor the city attorney, may be placed under oath and cross-examined about their motives in passing the ordinance.

The peep show ordinance, passed last July, regulated electrical wiring, lighting, building standards and fire regulations in peep show facilities.

Several downtown peep showmen filed a lawsuit and retained a temporary injunction against enforcement of the ordinance, saying the city could not pass it because, in effect, it restricted free speech.

The fate of the statute will be decided in a trial April 28. But the March 27 court ruling, that no depositions may be taken from elected city officials on the matter, may affect the outcome.

Witt's letter said the court adopted the position of his office—"that it would be highly improper to indulge in a judicial inquiry into the intent of motives of elected officials."

"What motivates an elected official to vote in a particular manner is more properly discussed in the electoral marketplace, not the courthouse," he continued.

"Legislators are responsible to their constituents, not to individual plaintiffs in lawsuits. In making its ruling the court noted that it knew of no court in the state which would uphold the right of individuals to make such inquiry of legislators."

Witt said "Pandora's fabled box" could be opened by allowing public officials to be cross-examined in open court as to why they voted for a particular ordinance.

The result, he said, would be the creation of a potent tool for political antagonists.

By simply filing a lawsuit, one could place his opponent under oath and publicly cross-examine him about his conduct in office, the city attorney said.

OBITUARIES

DALICE GRAMLICK

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Mrs. Dalice Gramlick, 44, of 5534 Soledad Mountain Rd., Pacific Beach. She died Friday.

A native of Santa Ana, she had been a county resident four years. Mrs. Gramlick was a member of the Women's Committee, San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association, the Opera Guild, the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge, the Public Relations Club of San Diego, the Starlight Women's Committee, and a board member of the Women's Association for the Salk Institute for Biological Studies.

Survivors include her husband, Mark; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence L. Groves of Julian, and two brothers, including Clarence Jr. of San Diego.

Interment was in El Camino Memorial Park. The family suggests remembrances be contributions to the San Diego Symphony Orchestra Association.

CASCO MIZZLES

Funeral services were held Tuesday for Casco T. Mizzles, 52, of 4111 Mt. Everest Blvd., Clairemont. He died Thursday.

A native of Arkansas, he was an Army veteran of World War II. He was parishioner of Allied Gardens Church of Christ.

Survivors include his wife, Laura; two sons, Ted and Clarence, both of San Diego; three daughters, Mrs. Lee Jensen, Mrs. Ruth Arena and Jo Mizzles, all of San Diego; his mother; three brothers; three sisters, and eight grandchildren.

Interment was in Greenwood Memorial Pak.

SARAH HAMILTON

Funeral services were held Wednesday for Mrs. Sarah Hamilton, 93, formerly of 1265 Park Row, La Jolla. She died the previously Wednesday in a rest home.

The widow of Dwight G. Hamilton, a retired wholesale druggist and Democratic party leader here, she was a member of Chapter NN, PEO Sisterhood. A native of Kansas, she had been a county resident since 1940.

Survivors include a daughter; a son, Barrett, of La Jolla; eight grandchildren, and 30 great-grandchildren. Inurnment will be in Cypress View Mausoleum. The family suggests remembrances be contributions to the donors' favorite charities.

HENNY INSCOE

Mrs. Henny M. Inscoe, 87, died Tuesday at the home of her son-in-law, City Manager Walter Hahn, 3915 Paducah Dr., Clairemont.

Born Oct. 26, 1881, in Dorum, Germany, Mrs. Inscoe came to the United States when she was 11.

She had lived with her daughter and son-in-law several years. Six years ago she moved with them from Inglewood to San Diego.

Her death followed a long illness.

A private funeral was planned, and the place of interment was not disclosed.

Surviving Mrs. Inscoe are her daughter, Mrs. Walter (Marian I.) Hahn; a sister, Mrs. Paula Searle, Berkeley, and two grandchildren.

The family suggests remembrances be contributions to the Salk Institute, c/o the Development Office, P. O. Box 1809, San Diego 92112.

STEVEN BARTLETT

Funeral services are pending for Steven Bartlett, 20, son of Dr. Grant R. Bartlett of Pacific Beach, and Mrs. Esther Bartlett, 4807 Dubois Dr., Clairemont.

He was killed in an automobile accident April 2 in Sonoyito, Mexico.

A graduate of La Jolla High School, he was a senior at the University of California at Davis.

Surviving besides his parents are two brothers, Tom, a sophomore at Arizona State University, and David, a freshman at Mesa College.

Martinet supports citywide elections

"I would not want to see this city, with its present form of government, divided eight ways," Councilman Bob Martinet said in an interview this week.

Martinet said that as he sees it now, councilmen should continue to be elected by a citywide vote, even though they are nominated by district.

The councilman recently appeared at a Citizens Charter Review Convention subcommittee meeting and was quizzed on his feelings about electing City Council members by district rather than at large.

Martinet told the group he had understood the meeting was to be "an introduction to the charter" and that he was not ready to express an opinion. But he did say he favors citywide elections, because he believes councilmen should be concerned with problems in districts besides their own.

Martinet told the Sentinel later that he had thought the subcommittee session would be just a discussion and orientation. He had not been prepared to state an opinion on changing the procedure of councilmen elections.

But he plans to stand by the opinion he expressed, although it is unpopular with some minority-group persons.

Minority-group leaders, including black City Councilman Leon Williams, have said councilmen would be more responsive to the needs of their respective areas if they were elected by district.

Martinet agreed that "minorities do have a serious problem." But election by district might lead to a ward-type government and defeat the goals minorities are fighting for, he said.

COUNCILMAN MARTINET
Eight ways are too many.

"If someone had enough money to dump into five men's campaigns, he might gain control of the city's government.

If minority persons were able to elect councilmen in even two districts, but their councilmen did not show interest in the rest of the city, this would not give them the voice they expect, Martinet said.

Minority groups can gain the voice they seek, without a change in present election policies, by getting their members registered and voting, he said.

In San Diego areas heavily populated with minority-group persons, only about one-fourth as many potential voters register as in other areas, he said.

"Get them registered, and get them voting, so they will count in every election."

To minority persons who complain councilmen don't show interest in their districts, Martinet says "Just try me—invite me."

"I want to have to take an interest in Allen's (Councilman Allen Hitch) district and to have him take an interest in mine."

Martinet is councilman for Pacific Beach, Mission Bay and parts of Clairemont and Kearny Mesa.

Concerning discussions about strengthening the mayor's position with veto power in the council, Martinet said he did not think the mayor needs additional powers.

But giving him more power might increase his stature, he said. "Maybe we have to go overboard and give the mayor a lot more power to counteract the feeling that the city manager is the 'big wheel.'"

People think San Diego has a strong city manager government, he said. And it is true the city manager is the one who keeps the city running—by getting out and doing the work.

But the mayor has the deciding vote in a deadlocked council vote, Martinet pointed out. And the mayor makes appointments to boards and commissions, subject only to the council's approval.

Martinet will meet again with a subcommittee of the charter review group Tuesday.

Town Talk

By MARY FISHEL

By MARY FISHEL

EASTER . . . means many things to different people . . . to the youngsters on our page today . . . it means the Easter Bunny and eggs. Perhaps they are right, since eggs were a symbol of spring's renewal in ancient Hindu and Egyptian religions . . . early Christians dyed their eggs red, signifying Christ's blood . . . later green for the bitter herbs eaten on Maundy Thursday.

Way back in 1290 (according to the General Foods Kitchen in New York) Edward I of Engand ordered 450 eggs dyed and decorated in gold leaf for distribution among the children of the royal household.

Earliest mention of the Easter Bunny wasn't until the late 16th century in a German fable telling how a rabbit dyed eggs and hid them in the woods and gardens at Easter time.

The Christian spring festival commemorates the Resurrection . . . in the Greek and Latin the spring festival is called Pascha . . . signifyng passing the equivalent of the Hebrew Pesach (according to the Encyclopedia Americana) the name recalling the "passing over" of the Hebrew housholds, when death smote the firstborn of the Egyptians as recorded in Exodus XII.

To the Norsemen, the festival of the divinity of spring, which they called Ostara or Eastre . . . new birth included the decoration of springs and wells with flowers in token of the returning flow of water, a life-giving necessity.

Easter eggs were colored red, blue and yellow from the Aurora borealis (the northern lights) and the dawning hues of the Easter sun.

Easter bonfires were also kindled to purify young men and women who desired marriage during the coming year. They sang and danced or gave three leaps over the flames!

Since Judaism and the Church of Rome could not agree on a date for Easter, all the countries including France, Italy, Egypt, Great Britain and Ireland celebrated on different Sundays in March and April.

Easter Day is now determined as the first Sunday after the paschal full moon, that is the 14th day of the calendar moon or full moon, which matures upon a Sunday, Easter Day is the first Sunday following.

To me Easter will always mean a beautiful yard or garden, where the Easter Bunny left eggs hidden for us to find, when we were little (before going to church, of course) . . . and since it was on the East Coast, IF spring had arrived, there were beautiful lilies-of-the-valley, sweet peas, daffodils, violets, and many other spring flowers.

IF spring had not arrived and we were having a late snow instead, the eggs were hidden in the house, but it was not nearly as much fun or as beautiful as the world out-of-doors.

Of course now in sunny California the Easter Rabbit won't have to worry about the weather (?) and we are sure the youngsters will have eggs rolling, inside and outside, all varieties, colors and shapes.

And of course . . . the best of all . . . the hard-boiled ones to eat!

Put on your Easter bonnet

The Vista Mesa Garden Club has planned an Easter breakfast for 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. James Fraser.

An Easter bonnet contest will feature prizes in two categories, for the most frivolous and most beautiful bonnets.

Committee members preparing the breakfast include Mmes. Merle Foss, James Schukantz, Donald Hildebrand, Henry O'Leary and Hillard Pratt. Mrs. Hildebrand is in charge of table decorations.

The nominating committee will present a slate of officers to the club members for election.

Proceeds from the breakfast will go to aid the club's philanthropic project, the Home of the Guiding Hands.

Members held an Easter picnic for member families Tuesday in a local park. An egg hunt was held for the children and they were given candy-filled baskets.

Those in charge of making the baskets were Mrs. Robert DuFresne, Mrs. Leonard Shunneson and Mrs. James Schukantz. Mrs. Frank Feeley and Mrs. Robert Ray prepared the lunch.

The garden club plans a rummage sale, bazaar and bake sale April 25 and 26.

Kappa Delta Alumnae to honor June graduates

Kappa Delta alumnae will meet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the collegiate chapter house at 5066 College Ave. at San Diego State College to honor June graduates of the college chapter.

Hostesses for the evening will be Miss Sue Sykora of Pacific Beach, Mrs. Ronald Roach of Clairemont and Miss Barbara Jo Fisher.

Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. Roach. Dessert will be served.

Miss Maxine Frank, president of the alumnae association, announced the presentation of the annual Kappa Delta Orthopedic Awards for research in 1968 recently. The presentations were made at the 36th annual meeting of the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons at the Americana Hotel in New York City.

Recipients of the three Kappa Delta Awards of $1,000 each were selected by the academy's Committee on Scientific Investigation and were introduced to the 2,000 members in attendance from throughout the United States and several foreign countries.

Those honored were Dr. Sandy C. Marks of Johns Hopkins University, Dr. J. Robert Close of Los Angeles, and jointly Drs. Walter Abendschein and George M. Hyatt of Washington, D.C.

The Kappa Delta Orthopedic Award was established in 1947 at the sorority's Golden Anniversary Convention, and is administered by the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons.

The award has been presented annually since 1950 and in 1961, was increased from a single grant of $1,000 to three grants of $1,000 each.

Litane McCauley was first in Class B. Betty Brooks was second. Sharing third were Yvette Lambert and Mary Mumby.

First in Class C were Kay Brown, Loyce Gillespie and Helen Sweeney. Mamie Jensen was second and Audrey Oyer, Jeanne Macey and Daisey Klauk were third.

Edith Crouch won the honor in Class D. Cay Lundberg took second and Madelyne Cohen and Gwen Kramer were tied for third.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles James Jefferson, 3759 Grim Ave., are parents of a son born March 29 in Doctors Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess C. Villegas, 3925 Hortensia St., are parents of a daughter born March 29 in Doctors Hospital.

Etiquette for flag?

Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary 5985 will sponsor an "Instructions of the American Flag Etiquette Class" at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Pacific Beach Methodist Church, 1451 Thomas St.

The class will be given by the United States Marine Recruit Depot for Girl Scout leaders of San Diego County.

Mrs. Ralph Trueb, Americanism chairman, will be assisted by Mrs. William Dykstra, auxiliary president, in the presentation.

The auxiliary will present the same talk to Camp Fire Girls' leaders at 10 a.m. Friday in the South Clairemont Community Center.

HARRY S. NELSON

Disabled American Veterans Auxiliary, Harry S. Nelson 2, will meet Monday at 8 p.m. in the Veterans War Memorial Building in Balboa Park.

Mrs. Charles Constable of Pacific Beach, auxiliary commander, will preside at the meeting.

Nomination and election of officers for the coming year will also be held. Following the meeting a joint social hour will be held with the chapter.

BETROTHED — The engagement of Jacqueline Louise Williams to Richard Joseph Ramirez has been announced by her parents Cmdr. Henis James Williams, USN, ret., and Mrs. Williams of La Jolla. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Ramirez of LaVerne, Calif. The bride-elect is attending Fullerton Junior College. Her fiance was graduated from Mt. San Antonio Junior College and is now a senior at California State College at Fullerton. He is a member of Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. An August 23 wedding has been planned.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Alcantara, 1234 18th St., are parents of a daughter born March 27 in Doctors Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary L. Gayda, 5043 Santa Monica Ave., Apt. 2, are parents of a daughter born March 29 in Doctors Hospital.

Dr. Barbour asked to speak Tuesday

Dr. Richmond Barbour, assistant superintendent of student services of the San Diego Unified School District, will speak at the 10:30 a.m. Tuesday meeting of the La Jolla Unit of Pro America.

The meeting will be held in the penthouse at the Hotel Del Charro.

Barbour will speak on the self education program in the city schools.

Reservations may be made at the door.

Mrs. Joseph Wright will lead the prayer and Mrs. J. T. Elliott will lead the pledge. Principles will be stated by Mrs. Marguerite W. Hewes and Mrs. James Milton is hostess in charge.

Mrs. Merle Francis will speak on national legislation and Mrs. James O. Pike will speak on state legislation. Mrs. J. C. Clark is in charge of reservations. Program chairman is Mrs. Fred Norris.

The April study group will meet at 10 a.m. April 15 in the Bank of La Jolla to hear Mrs. Garrett Parsons speak on "The Ultimate Weapon."

She has been a Pro America member since 1955 and for many years served as unit membership treasurer. From May 1963 until 1965 she was president of the La Jolla unit.

She is now state and national chairman of the resolutions committee.

Rozsnyai will speak

"Society and Music" will be the topic chosen by the conductor of the San Diego Symphony Orchestra, Zoltan Rozsnyai of Pacific Beach, when he speaks to members of the San Diego Branch of the American Association of University Women at noon April 12.

His talk will follow luncheon and a general meeting in the clubhouse.

Rozsnyai received his musical education at the Franz Liszt Academy in Budapest, Hungary. In 1955 he became director of the Hungarian National Orchestra and in 1956 he formed the Philharmonica Hungarica, touring the United States under the auspices of the Rockefeller and Ford Foundations.

In 1961 he served as assistant conductor of the New York Philharmonic under Leonard Bernstein and came to San Diego in 1967 following directorship of the Utica and Cleveland Symphonies.

Reservations for the luncheon may be made by Thursday through Miss Bonnie McDonald.

Newcomers in PB plan luncheon

The newly formed Pacific Beach Newcomers Club will hold a luncheon meeting at 11 a.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Ralph Hill.

Robert Bichowsky, an agronomist and ornamental horticulturist, will be luncheon speaker. His talk will concern spring planting.

Mrs. Katherine Weaver is co-hostess. Program chairman is Mrs. Edward Johnson.

An arts and crafts meeting will be held April 17 at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Stan Johnson. Those attending have been asked to bring a sack lunch.

Mrs. Theodore Rzeznik was named president of the club at the election and installation meeting last month. Other officers are Mrs. Edward Johnson and Mrs. Elmer Thompson, vice presidents, and Mrs. Weaver, secretary-treasurer.

Mrs. Trevor Clarke, Welcome Wagon sponsor and a member of the La Jolla Newcomers Club, was the installing officer at the candlelight ceremony.

Chairmen assisting Mrs. Rzeznik are Mrs. Johnson, programs; Mrs. Thompson, membership; Mrs. Weaver, publicity and historian; Mrs. Wilmont Dyer, publicity and historian co-chairman; Mrs. Johnson, hospitality and Mrs. Thompson, phone committee.

GARDEN FOR NEWCOMERS—Pacific Beach Newcomers (from left) Mrs. Katherine Weaver, Mrs. Ralph Bell, Mrs. Ted Rzeznik and Mrs. Stan Johnson met Thursday to plan a luncheon to be held Wednesday in the home of Mrs. Ralph Bell. Robert Bichowsky, agronomist and ornamental horticulturist, will be the luncheon speaker.

PB Woman's Club will elect officers

Election of officers for the Pacific Beach Woman's Club will be held at 1 p.m. Tuesday in the Soledad Mountain Road Clubhouse.

A "Share-a-Dish" luncheon will begin at noon.

Those nominated for offices are Mmes. Wilbur Gorsuch of Pacific Beach, president; Mrs. Guy Weatherbie of Clairemont, first vice president; Elmer Blackwell of Point Loma, second vice president; Ralph Amitrano, third vice president; John Worobec, recording secretary; Thomas Dease, corresponding secretary, and James Taylor, treasurer, all of Pacific Beach.

Additional nominations may be made from the floor at the meeting.

The nominating committee, elected at the February meeting, was composed of Mmes. Joseph Richeson, chairman, and Arthur Berthelsen, Earl Billings, Merrill Dumm and Frank George.

Two foreign exchange students from Mission Bay High School will be guests of the club at the meeting.

Ignes Pinhiro from Lavres, Brazil, and Gonzalo Villagran of Montevidio, Uruguay, will answer questions from the women. Miss Pinhiro lives with Dr. James Nelson and Mrs. Nelson while Villagran lives with Mr. and Mrs. George Gray.

Mrs. Wilbur Gorsuch will introduce the students.

Mrs. Marcus Robbins, status of women chairmen, will present the club's citations to three women of achievement. Recipients are Mrs. John Paul Stone, international representative of the YWCA and international representative of the United Methodist Churches, Mrs. Olive Thompson, film production specialist at the Naval Electronic Laboratory Center, and Mrs. Hunter Muir, commissioner of the San Diego - Yokahama Friendship Board.

Mrs. Raymond Smith, president and founder of City Beautiful, spoke at the literature and drama section of the woman's club recently. Her subject, "Mrs. Smith Goes to Washington," emphasized highlights of her recent trip to receive the third consecutive award for city beautification. The awards were presented by the National Congress of Beautification.

The literature section has donated a large quantity of used books to the Pacific branch of the public library, in addition to cash for the purchase of new books.

The section will present a $50 award to the most outstanding student in the speech and arts departments of Mission Bay High School.

Mrs. Arthur Eaton is chairman of the section.

The women were hostess to the Pacific Beach Junior Woman's Club on the Pacific Beach Woman's Club's founding last week. Mrs. Gorsuch was chairman. Her committee included Mmes. Berthelsen, Telford Cowart, John Ratz, Richeson and Lee Wilson.

Recently the club chorus sang at a "Luncheon is Served" event. "Fashion Frolic" followed the luncheon. Jean Kremer presented the fashions and a card party was held.

Mrs. Gorsuch was chairman. Ticket chairmen were Mrs. William Scapple and Mrs. Randolph Woodward. Proceeds helped social welfare projects.

The chorus has presented several outside-club programs recently including before the senior citizens of the University Christian Church, the House of Pacific Relations in Balboa Park, Palomar Districts' "Fiesta de Bellas Artes," the Friendship Rehabilitation Center and the Kearny Mesa Convalescent Home.

In the future the chorus will perform before the senior citizens of the Point Loma Community Church, the Friendship Club of the Pacific Beach Presbyterian Church, the Reynard Way Convalescent Home and the Women's Association of the Pacific Beach Presbyterian Church.

Earnest Riviera spoke on Alaska at the Tuesday meeting of the international affairs section. Mrs. Carl Hensen introduced Riviera. Tea was served by Mrs. Dorothy Danforth and Mrs. James McElwee.

Bury your talents? don't do that . . .

The Women's Service Guild of the La Jolla Community Church of Religious Science will meet at 7:15 p.m. Wednesday in the La Jolla home of Mrs. Roy Richards.

Mrs. Joseph H. Williston is co-hostess.

Members have been asked to bring items for the program "Show and Tell, or Don't Bury Your Talents." They will display home made clothing, hobbies, collections and others.

Mrs. A. M. Work and Mrs. Marjorie Geddes will pour today following Easter services. Mrs. Alicia Grant and Mrs. Joseph Wood will greet visitors and members at the church door Sundays in April.

The guild is sponsoring a one-day bus trip April 19 to Ports O'Call in San Pedro harbor followed by an afternoon in the famous Decanso Gardens of Arcadia.

Mrs. Joseph T. Yager is chairman of the trip.

Ports O'Call village recalls the California of a century ago with boat rides, strolling troubadours, shops and unusual restaurants.

Following lunch the tour will proceed to Descanso Gardens. Tram tours will be available and the garden features a teahouse.

The bus will leave the La Jolla Woman's Club at 8 a.m. and leave the gardens at 4 p.m. Price of the round trip is $6, not including lunch. Reservations will be on a first come, first serve basis.

Members of the church and the public, both men and women, have been invited to attend the tour. Reservations may be made by contacting Mrs. I. G. Rooder, guild president, at the book table foyer of the La Jolla Woman's Club following Easter service or by contacting Mrs. Yager at 488-6831 evenings only.

Mrs. Chapman will preside

Sigma Kappa Alumnae Association will meet for election of officers at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the collegiate sorority house, 5804 Montezuma Road.

Mrs. William Chapman, president, will lead the meeting.

Members of the nominating committee are Mrs. Frederick Todt of La Jolla, chairman, Mrs. Charles Buck of Point Loma and Mrs. R. Scott Snell.

Reservations may be made with Mrs. Edwin Shippey of Clairemont. Hostesses are Mrs. Thomas Hale of Pacific Beach and Mrs. Merritt Hamner.

Workshop on protocol

The San Diego Toastmistress Club will learn the fine points of protocol when they meet at noon Thursday in the San Diego Zoo Restaurant in Balboa Park.

Mrs. M. E. O'Shea will conduct a workshop on the subject.

Miss Oreen Dorman of Pacific Beach, president, has invited all interested women to attend the meeting. She may be reached at 272-0788.

Mrs. R. M. Martin will be general evaluator and Mrs. James C. Pike will give an education lesson.

Mrs. Selzler will preside

Order of the Eastern Star, La Jolla Chapter 479, will meet at 8 p.m. Friday in the Masonic Temple, 5655 La Jolla Blvd.

Mrs. Dorothy G. Selzler, worthy matron, and Vernon V. Aiman, worthy patron, will preside.

Appointive officers from all other Eastern Star chapters in San Diego County will be guests of the La Jolla Chapter for the evening. Guest officers have been chosen to fill the host officers' stations for the opening ceremonies.

Pie will be served as part of the after-chapter activities.

Eastern Star members visiting in the area have been invited to attend.

WOMEN OVERSEAS

The San Diego Unit of the Women's Overseas Service League will hold its April meeting at 12:30 p.m. Saturday at Lyda's on Fifth Avenue.

A report and discussion of the area conference held in San Diego in March will be presented.

Instant Daily Earnings

Since our inception on November 8, 1928, La Jolla Federal has been one of the first to provide changes, advantages and innovations when provided by Federal Law, resulting in higher earnings for our depositors.

Examples are:* Quarterly Dividends in place of Semi-Annual Dividends, crediting earnings on deposits from the first when received by the tenth, and three day grace period at the end of each quarter, which allows the withdrawal of funds three days before the end of the quarter without losing the quarter's dividend, crediting earnings from the date of deposit if funds are held to the end of the quarter, bonus accounts minimum amount of $5,000.00 and issued in multiples of $1,000.00 which earn a ¼% over the going rate on funds held for three years, consistently paying the highest dividend allowed by Federal Law, presently 5% which will yield a rate of 5.13% if funds are held for one year and quarterly dividends are allowed to accumulate, earnings compounded on a daily basis.

We now announce an additional service for our depositors:* Interest to Date of Withdrawal. Commencing April 1st, La Jolla Federal will pay you for each day your savings are on deposit, which means your savings will earn from the day your funds are received to the actual day they are withdrawn, without any qualifying period. Funds in one day and out the next will earn for the time they are on deposit.

Surplus funds in your checking account or special purpose monies may now be placed with us and receive a full 5% compounded daily for the number of days on deposit. Remember, no minimum number of days required.

New apartments are under way in La Jolla

Construction is under way on the La Jolla Vista Apartments, a 57-unit development on Torrey Pines Rd., east of Ardath Rd.

The structure will be three stories high and will include one and two-bedroom apartments, each with its own balcony.

The total building area is 55,000 square feet. Parking for 78 cars is planned.

The apartments were designed by Ferris and Brewer Architects, Inc., 3776 Front St., and are being built by the L. W. Carson Construction Co.

The owner is H. and M. Investors of La Jolla.

Has Viet duty

Marine S/Sgt. Louis R. Montoya, husband of Mrs. Ruth Montoya, 2271 Fountz St., Pacific Beach is serving with Hdqts. Battery, Third Battalion, 12th Marine Regiment, 3rd Marine Division in Vietnam. As part of the division's mobile assignments, the battalion has been conducting sweep and clear operations throughout the northern provinces of the country.

It's true—history does repeat itself, and every time it happens a great number of people find themselves shortchanged.

Pillars series sets evangelist as third speaker

The third speaker in the San Diego Kiwanis Club's Pillars of American Freedom series of luncheon talks will be Dr. Joseph H. Jackson, an evangelist and president of the National Baptist Convention.

The program will be at noon Tuesday in Convention Hall of the Community Concourse. The Pillars series, now in its ninth year, is dedicated to "enlightening, educating and rededicating ourselves to the real meaning of freedom," according to Lt. Gen. Victor H. Krulak (NSMC-ret.) general chairman.

Jackson's topic will be "Spiritual and Clerical Responsibility" under the 1969 Pillars theme, "Responsibility, Keystone of Freedom."

Tickets for the luncheon and for the no-luncheon balcony seats will be available at the door.

Increase reaped by this year's Seal campaign

The 62nd annual Christmas Seal Campaign in San Diego and Imperial counties closed March 31 with $13,525.98 more than the previous campaign, according to Dr. Robert C. Mowry, Pacific Beach area chairman of the Tuberculosis & Health Association of San Diego County.

The Imperial and San Diego county voluntary agencise consolidated March 27.

Total contributions to the 1968-69 campaign in San Diego County were $203,079.23, compared with the previous record of $189,746.88.

About 20 percent of local contributions go to the National Tuberculosis & Respiratory Disease Assn. and the Tuberculosis & Health Assn. of California for research purposes and for development of tools to combat respiratory diseases, Mowry said.

Development 'walk' projects are selected

The organizers of the planned San Diego County Walk for Development have decided on the projects to be supported by the funds raised from the 30-mile walk being undertaken April 27 by thousands of San Diego youths. The youths will take a priority vote on the projects and the funds will be divided accordingly.

The four international projects to go on the youth ballot are an agricultural education and training program in Dahomey, Africa; an agricultural production program in Brazil; the Literacy House education complex in Lucknow, India, and the San Diego India Village project. The local project to be supported is the Surplus Foods Program, a federal government project.

Aboard Wiltsie

Seaman Apprentice Fred Gomez, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gomez, 3452 Armstrong St., Kearny Mesa, recently participated in Operation Bell Jangle while serving aboard the destroyer USS Wiltsie. The third major Naval exercise off the coast of California this year, Bell Jangle is an operation designed to emphasize the tactics needed in both Southeast Asian operations and Western Pacific deployments.

PETER ENCOUNTERS THE WOLF
Complete with flashing eyes and snapping jaw.

LOOK OUT, PETER . . .

It's that wolf again!

The marionettes of the "Puppets Please" group will bring to life Prokofiev's children's story, "Peter and the Wolf," every Sunday afternoon this month. The half-hour puppet play will be staged in the Balboa Park Puppet Theater, with performances at 1:30 and 2:30.

All the marionettes featured in the brand-new play were made by San Diego puppeteer Shirley McManus. They include a fierce wolf, complete with flashing eyes and a snapping jaw; a delightful Peter, clothed in traditional Russian garments, and, of course, Peter's grandfather and all his animal friends.

Mrs. McManus' daughter, Terry Eileen, who portrayed Christopher Robin in various "Winnie-the-Pooh" plays over the last few years, will assume the role of a full-fledged puppeteer in this production, operating a number of marionettes.

The story of "Peter and the Wolf" concerns a rural Russian boy who liked to get out of his yard and play in the meadow with his animal friends, even though the danger of wolves existed

The production will be staged today and April 13, 20 and 27. The puppet theatre is located in the Palisades area of the park. Admission costs 25 cents

New officer controls Northern Division

A veteran of 18 years of service in the San Diego Police Department has assumed duties as officer in charge of the Northern Division.

He is Capt. Ralph M. Davis, 42, who succeeded Capt. Michael Sgobba on Friday.

Sgobba, who has headed the northern division since July, 1968, is being transferred to central headquarters, where he will be in charge of training.

Davis has been a patrol captain at headquarters since November, 1967, when he was promoted to his present rank.

After joining the department in January, 1951, Davis served as a patrolman in the Patrol Division for five years, and then was assigned to the burglary detail in the Detective Division.

In February, 1958, he was promoted to sergeant, and gained a lieutenant's bars in July, 1960, when he was named second in command of the jail crew.

Following another stint with the burglary detail, Davis served as head of the homicide squad for more than two years. In June, 1967, he was placed in charge of the internal investigations detail. That unit investigates complaints against police officers and also conducts background investigations of applicants for police positions.

As head of the homicide squad, Davis assisted in solving the double murder of a caretaker and his wife April 4, 1965, at the Mission Bay Yacht Club. The victims were Victor and Vernice Bowen. William A. Tahl was convicted of the murders and is still on Death Row at San Quentin.

POLICE CAPTAIN DAVIS
A milestone in a notable career.

A native of Anaheim, Davis has been a member of the Pacific Beach Rotary Club since 1962 and is a graduate of the Army and Navy Academy in Carlsbad. He earned an associate arts degree in police science at San Diego City College.

In World War II the captain served as an aviation cadet in the Army Air Corps. The U. S. Air Force recalled him to active duty as a criminal investigator during the Korean War.

Davis and his wife, Shirley, live in San Carlos with their two sons, Thomas, 14, and Ralph III, 19.

The officer's new assignment places him in charge of most police activities in Pacific Beach, Mission Beach, La Jolla, a portion of Del Mar, Clairemont, University City, Kearny Mesa, Serra Mesa, Linda Vista and Rancho Bernardo.

ADVANCE IN SCOUTING RANKS

Mrs. John O'Donnell, an aide to U. S. Rep. Bob Wilson (R-San Diego), presented Star Scout awards recently to these members of Boy Scout Troop 268. The recipients, all age 13, were Steve Beary (left), 1963 Magdalene Way; James Sparks III, 2420 Chicago St., and Sam Pisciotta, 1528 Knoxville St. Scoutmaster Harold Hastings received an eight-year pin at the court of honor conducted at the Bay Park School.

Boy will suffer shots if dog is not found

A 10-year-old boy will require Pasteur treatments starting today, if the black and tan German shepherd dog that bit him about noon Wednesday on East Crown Point Shores cannot be located this morning.

Daniel Renner, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Renner, 3715 Haines St. in Pacific Beach, was flying a kite on the beach when the dog bit him, "not seriously, but enough to puncture the skin."

The medium-sized shepherd was chained to a picnic table. Daniel thinks the dog answered to the name "Queen."

Owners were described by a maintenance worker as a man, a blonde woman and three small blonde children. They left the area in a white passenger car before Mrs. Renner could get from her home to the beach.

The unknown family frequently visits the area, it was reported. Their call to police, to the animal regulation division, or to the Renners at 274-2607, can save a boy many hours of pain.

Charitable donations require adequate proof

The failure of some taxpayers to substantiate their charitable contributions caused the loss of all or part of the amount they claimed as a deduction last year.

Substantiation of charitable contributions is one of the most frequent problems encountered in the audit of tax returns, F. S. Schmidt, district director of internal revenue, has reminded Southren California taxpayers.

Another problem in the contribution area that appeared on last year's returns was the claim of the full amount paid for a ticket to a charity ball, theatre benefit, or banquet as a charitable contribution.

Schmidt pointed out that only that part of the ticket price in excess of the value received by the buyer may be considered a charitable contribution.

"When $10 is paid for a ticket at a charity banquet and the meal would normally cost $4, then only $6 may be considered a charitable gift," he said.

Pools, lighting seen for Cabrillo statue

Improvements on the 16-foot statue of Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo on the tip of Point Loma have been suggested by a subcommittee of an advisory board to the National Park Service, according to Mayor Frank Curran.

The mayor told a press conference this week the suggested improvements would include building a small amphitheater for the statue.

Lighted reflecting pools and high-density lighting to enhance the statue also were proposed, Curran said.

United California Bank is latest in new center

United California Bank is the latest major tenant to sign a lease for space at the $10 million Balboa Shopping Center, according to Martin D. Wilson, of Coldwell, Banker & Co., the exclusive leasing agent.

Wilson said that more than 50 percent of the facility, which is under construction at the northeast corner of Balboa and Genesee Aves., has been leased.

Fed Mart, Walker Scott and Zodys department stores will occupy key sites at the center and will cover a combined area of 450,000 square feet.

There will be 95,000 square feet for Fed Mart, 80,000 for Walker Scott and 103,000 for Zodys.

Wilson said about 160,000 square feet are being reserved for mall shopping and satellite services.

Tenants will include a savings and loan association, insurance company, delicatessen and liquor store.

Wilson said the mall area will feature women's apparel, fabrics, infant's wear, family shoes, men's apparel, boutique, book and novelty shops, jewelry store and various other outlets.

The T.G.F. Co. is developer of the center and Innis-Tennebaum & Associates are designing the buildings. Ernest W. Hahn Co. is the general contractor.

Special clothing, gear may be tax-deductible

The cost and maintenance of special clothing or equipment on the job may be deducted on federal income tax returns, according to F. S. Schmidt, district director of internal revenue for Southern California.

To qualify, the clothing and equipment must be required as a condition for employment.

The cost of uniforms worn by nurses, bus drivers, firemen and policemen may be deducted. In general, clothing that is appropriate only for wear on the job is deductible.

If a worker is required to supply his own tools and equipment their cost may be deducted. This provision also covers the cost of membership dues in professional societies and subscriptions to professional and trade journals.

A free pamphlet, Publication 529, "Other 'Page 2' Miscellaneous Deductions," contains details on this subject. It can be obtained by sending a postal card to the District Director, Internal Revenue Service, Tax Forms, P. O. Box 1711, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.
